

A recent graduate of the London College of Communication, I am currently in search of work and collaborations, not limited to either London or the UK.

I'm an articulate and amiable person, technically competent in most areas and a fast learner in those I am not. Meticulous in my method, I have an eye for detail and pride myself on the quality of the delivered product. I am keenly interested in all the design disciplines and increasingly the boundaries between. My use of a variety of medias allows me to choose the most appropriate and I strongly believe that this is crucial to my work, informing all aspects of my thinking.
